iOttie's iTap 2 Wireless Car Mount Series Is Here and It's the Most Efficient Line of Wireless Chargers on the Market

The hassle-free mount features two powerful rare-earth magnets that work with a Metal Plate system to hold smartphones securely in various road conditions.

NEW YORK - April 3, 2019 — iOttie, a leading mobile accessories company, today launched its iTap 2 Wireless Car Mount series. The new line of smartphone car mounts features strong magnets in each device to safely mount any smartphone to your vehicle, while simultaneously delivering wireless Qi power to charge your phone. As more states pass hands-free driving legislation, it is increasingly important for drivers to find the right car mount solution. The iTap 2 Wireless series includes mounts that affix to a car's dashboard, windshield, air vent or CD slot to help users abide by their state's unique specifications.

Eric Kang, Senior Director at iOttie, said: "We are excited to launch the iTap 2 Wireless, the latest addition to iOttie's robust mobile accessories lineup. With the new iTap 2 Wireless devices, it's easier than ever to ensure you stay hands-free on the road: with one simple tap, you can mount your phone and begin charging simultaneously. The iTap 2 Wireless empowers utility and efficiency like never before, making it the best smartphone car mount for those who are always on the go."

Each mount in the series employs two powerful rare-earth magnets that work with a metal plate system to hold smartphones securely in various road conditions. Users need to only attach the unobtrusive metal plate to the back of their phones or cases to enjoy mounting their device with one simple "tap" motion. Once mounted securely, Qi wireless charging technology delivers power to compatible smartphones automatically, without the need for additional charging cables in the car. With superior wireless charging technology and nearly a decade of demonstrated excellence in the car mount industry, iOttie offers consumers the most advanced, effective and efficient smartphone car mount solutions on the market.
